ELVIS,

Aloha from Hawaii

40-Year Anniversary Presentation

Elmo, Ernie and Friends

Sesame Street Live Pre-Show Fun

In July, more than 36 Keiki Club families – 120 people in all – enjoyed watching Sesame Street Live performances at the Neal Blaisdell Concert Hall in Honolulu. Before each show, PBS Hawaii staff and volunteers conducted games and crafts as well as a meet-and-greet photo session with Elmo and Ernie.

Elvis Presley made television history in 1973 with a live concert special televised via satellite. Now, 40 years later, PBS Hawaii viewers can relive that historic night with Elvis, Aloha from Hawaii. See page 4. Photo: Elvis Presley Enterprises, Inc.

The Year That Was: 1973

Leslie Wilcox
PBS Hawaii
President and CEO

I recall tuning in daily to Hawaii morning radio in 1973 to hear about the fabulous hullabaloo surrounding Elvis Presley's concert in Hawaii. He had lost 25 pounds for Elvis, Aloha from Hawaii, to be seen live by satellite in more than 40 countries.

However, at that time, live concerts were not on my real-world wish list. I was attending college full-time while working a heavy and intricate schedule of part-time jobs.

One of the jobs, as a weekday morning news assistant in the Honolulu Star-Bulletin's State Capitol bureau, would lead to a news career.

From that news vantage point, here's the 1973 I remember:

- Governor Burns was fighting cancer and Lieutenant Governor George Ariyoshi took over as the State's acting chief executive.
- After years of wrangling, the State Legislature approved a four-year medical school for Hawaii.
- Hawaii's public school teachers, seeking better pay and working conditions, held the first statewide teachers strike in the nation.
- Citing cultural tradition and practice, the State Supreme Court under Chief Justice William Richardson made major rulings awarding the public more beach access and water usage.
- One of Hawaii's old Big Five trading and agricultural companies, Theo H. Davies, was sold to Hong Kong-based Jardine Matheson.
- A 6.2-magnitude earthquake rocked the state and caused damage and injuries on the eastern side of Hawaii Island.

Elvis Presley pauses for an interview with concert promoter Tom Moffatt moments after arriving in Honolulu on January 9, 1973.

- The Polynesian Voyaging Society was founded.
- The first Honolulu Marathon was held.
- In Washington D.C., the Watergate scandal was deepening and Hawaii Senator Daniel Inouye became a national star.

This month, I'll see the concert phenomenon that I missed out on in 1973, less than five years before Elvis' unexpected passing at age 42.

Concert promoter Tom Moffatt and I will co-host a 40th anniversary airing on PBS Hawaii at 7:00 pm on Sunday, August 11. Please join us as Tom and other Islanders share memories of this landmark satellite-live event.

A hui hou (until next time),

ELVIS,

Aloha from Hawaii

40-Year Anniversary Presentation

Lovely Kwock of Makiki remembers the night she made history with Elvis.

“I bought this pink, plastic plumeria lei,” Kwock recalls. “I came to the stage, reached up and gave him the lei, and he put it around his neck.”

Search the Internet for photos from that concert in 1973, and you’ll find Elvis wearing several lei, including Kwock’s pink plumeria which she gave to him from the front row (top photo at right).

That January 14 performance also made history as the first concert by a solo artist to be internationally broadcast live via satellite.

Forty years later, PBS Hawaii viewers can relive that historic night with Elvis, Aloha from Hawaii. The 90-minute concert special airs Sunday, August 11 at 7:00 pm. President and CEO Leslie Wilcox and legendary concert promoter Tom Moffatt will co-host this fundraising event for PBS Hawaii programming. UH Manoa sorority Beta Beta Gamma will volunteer on the phone bank, while sporting the era’s fashion.

Lovely Kwock

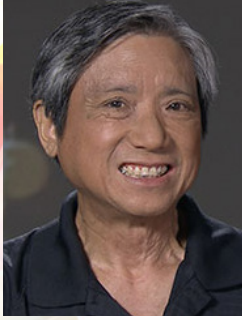

“Elvis was the king of rock and roll. There’s only one king.”

- Lovely Kwock, Makiki resident

Live satellite broadcasts are common today, but in 1973, it was a first. The concert was beamed live to over 20 countries, and eventually aired in about 40 countries across Europe, Asia and later shown in an edited form in the U.S.

Director Marty Pasetta also deployed live split-screen effects – another innovation at the time. “It was an exciting time in television,” says Jim “J.R.” Rothschild, a former camera operator at KGMB. The local CBS affiliate worked alongside an NBC TV crew from the U.S. mainland for the televised event. continued on page 6 >>

The 1973 performance was a benefit for a cancer fund named after Hawaii entertainer Kui Lee, who died in 1966 of lymph gland cancer at age 34.

“Everybody could afford to go to it,” remembers concert goer Dennis Wong of Honolulu.

“You could give whatever you wanted to donate.”

Wong says he donated $100 for each of his two tickets. In total, the concert raised about $75,000 for the fund.

For Lovely Kwock, Elvis, Aloha from Hawaii is a gift itself. Call it coincidence or call it fate, the special will air on her 75th birthday. Look for Kwock handing her lei to Elvis approximately eight minutes into the concert special.

“Elvis was the king of rock and roll,” Kwock says. “There’s only one king.”

THE KING IS BACK!

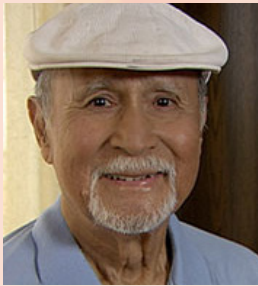

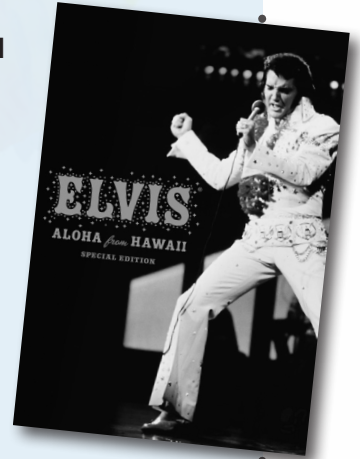

Relive the iconic concert!

A Concert to Remember

Hawaii fans, crew members and support musicians recall Elvis’ 1973 concert at the Hawaii International Center (HIC), now the Neal S. Blaisdell Center.

“I never dreamed that I would be at a concert of Elvis Presley’s – let alone being able to meet him.”

- Brad Powell of Aina Haina

“Elvis was such a polished performer. It was magical just watching him.”

- Joyce Powell of Aina Haina

“Until I saw Elvis and what he did, I didn’t believe the hype that he was the king of rock and roll. After that concert, he was indeed the king of rock and roll.”

- Gregg Ambrosius, former KGMB crew member

“After the concert, I had great respect for Elvis. He was true to his audience, true to the music and he loved the band.”

- Gabe Baltazar, support musician, legendary Hawaii Jazz musician

Long Story Short With Leslie Wilcox

Hedda Sharapan

TUESDAY, AUGUST 27 | 7:30 PM

In a new Long Story Short, Leslie Wilcox talks with Hedda Sharapan, Director of Early Childhood Initiatives at The Fred Rogers Company. Sharapan, a Pittsburgh native and granddaughter of a Holocaust survivor, worked closely with Fred Rogers on Mister Rogers' Neighborhood.

After applying to graduate school, Sharapan sought advice from Rogers, who advised her to pursue a master's degree in child development.

"What he was saying to me is, 'The important thing is not so much what can we give children,'" Sharapan told Wilcox. "The question is, what are they bringing to us?"

That philosophy has guided Sharapan for almost 50 years. In her current role at The Fred Rogers Company, Sharapan observes how children learn and helps incorporate curriculum and life lessons into the company's productions. Its latest show, Peg + Cat, presents fun, real-world math and problem solving situations for children ages five through eight. Peg + Cat premieres this October on PBS Hawaii.

It didn't take Sharapan long to find the STEAM curriculum - science, technology, engineering, the arts and math - in Rogers' lessons about appreciating the world.

"One of the things that Fred often said was, 'Our questions are more important than our answers.' And if we can, listen to children's questions, honor them, validate them."

Q. How can I make automatic, monthly contributions to PBS Hawaii? What are the benefits?

A. You can sign up or get more information by visiting us at PBSHawaii.org/support or calling (808) 973-1000.

When you pledge to give a specific monthly donation by credit card – in an amount you are comfortable with – you join a group of committed supporters making a significant contribution to PBS Hawaii’s efforts to advance learning and discovery through television.

You will receive all of the benefits of annual giving, including our monthly program guide, where you will see first-hand the outcomes of your investment. In addition, you will be a paperless supporter and won’t receive any renewal mailings from us!

Rick Nakashima

Owner, Ruby Tuesday Hawaii

"I'm proud to be aligning with PBS Hawaii," says Rick Nakashima, longtime supporter of public television and owner of Ruby Tuesday Hawaii. "We sponsor NOVA, because it's not only one of my personal favorites, but also my kids grew up watching it as well. As an education major, I understand the importance of having a dedicated channel that provides quality programs that are enriching, educational and entertaining.

"As a music lover, I know that supporting PBS Hawaii goes toward the continued showcase of performances from both local and international artists. Great shows such as Antiques Roadshow, Independent Lens and my local favorite, Long Story Short with Leslie Wilcox, demonstrate PBS Hawaii's wide range of quality viewing around the clock."

Ruby Tuesday Hawaii is a locally owned and operated restaurant with four locations on Oahu and one on Maui. Mahalo nui loa to Ruby Tuesday Hawaii for your longtime support of public television in Hawaii. If you or your business would like to become a PBS Hawaii community partner, contact Tatsu Sasaki at tsasaki@pbshawaii.org or (808) 973-1990.

HIKI NŌ The Nation's First Statewide Student News Network PRESENTED ON PBS HAWAII BY BANK OF HAWAII AND HMSA

Maui Teachers Workshop

In July, PBS Hawaii held a two-day intensive, hands-on production workshop for Maui's HIKI NŌ teachers. Led by Learning Initiatives Executive Producer Robert Pennybacker, HIKI NŌ Online Editor/Associate Producer Lawrence Pacheco, and HIKI NŌ Managing Editor SueYim, the workshop was hosted by teacher Jennifer Suzuki in her Maui Waena Intermediate media classroom. Sixteen Maui teachers honed their writing, shooting and editing skills through a series of presentations and exercises.

On Day One, guest-presenter Christi Young Tomisato (former Assistant News Director for Hawaii News Now) led an interactive session on story development and brainstorming. Lawrence Pacheco went over HIKI NŌ production standards and SueYim did the same for journalistic standards. Later in the day, teams of teachers shot and edited action sequences, which were then critiqued.

Day Two immersed teachers in the production process. The teams shot, wrote and edited interview-based stories, which were then screened and analyzed.

A great deal of learning took place, and one "aha" moment at the end of the second day summed up the experience.

After watching her team's story, Hana K-12 teacher Ramona Moeai remarked, "Since the beginning of HIKI NŌ I never understood what shooting a sequence was all about. I just didn't get it, until today, because today I had to shoot our sequence and make it work for our editor. By being forced to do it, I finally figured it out for myself." A perfect example of learning by doing.
